Boy Is Found.
Manitowish. In an all night and all day search for 11-year-old Alfred Aarhus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Aarhus, Sr., was brought to a close late Tuesday afternoon by the arrival of a telegram from the lad's uncle, Ray Drang, St. Paul, telling of the boy's presence at his home in that city. How the youth made the trip remains a mystery and his father has departed for St. Paul to bring him back. The police dragged the river most of the day Tuesday as the last seen of the Aarhus boy was when he played on the docks near the Elks Club house.

HASKINS TELLS OF MAN WHO PLANS ALL INCOME TAXES

Annual revenue of $961,000,000 was expended annually $9,130,000,000. It is figured that now her total debt is over $300,000,000.

In 1918, Germany's annual receipts were $810,000,000, while she was spending $3,181,000,000. The annual expenditure was more than three times that much.

England is estimated to have obligations close to $40,000,000,000. In 1918, the total revenue of the United Kingdom was $3,442,000,000, to meet annual expenditures of $12,000,000,000. At that time her debt was close to $30,000,000,000.

Little is known of Russia's debt since 1915. Then there was being raised annually about $1,500,000,000 while the annual cost of operating the government was four times that much. Russia's debt was $22,774,000,000 at that time, but it has increased in leaps and bounds since then, as the present government is issuing its own paper money without any security behind it as fast as the presses can turn it out.

Mr. McCoy denies the claim recently made that taxes in this country have increased 2,000 percent. In 1914 the annual revenue was about one billion dollars. This year it will be about six billion, or an increase in taxes of about 600 percent. The increase in taxes in England is estimated to be about 1,100 percent.

There is an interesting comparison of the income tax in various countries. Here is an interesting comparison of the income tax in various countries. In the United States pays $20 taxes; in England he pays $210.94; in Canada he pays $10; in France he pays $11.2.

With an income of $1,000,000 in the United States pays in taxes $703,030; in England he pays $619,687.50; in Canada he pays $499,167; in France he pays $173,732.50.

In the United States a man with an income of $6,000,000—and according to Mr. McCoy there are 10 or 12 of them—pays $3,733,030 income tax.

K. C.'s Hand Out 10,000 Doughnuts to Yanks in Coblenz

LAST INCOME TAX BILL OF SEASON IS KILLED IN HOUSE

(By FRED L. HOLMES)

Madison, June 27.—The last income tax bill of the session was killed in the Wisconsin assembly Thursday evening when the house by a vote of 46 to 42 indefinitely postponed the G. E. Hanson measure. This bill did not provide as radical increased in rates as the Arnold income tax bill which was defeated several days ago. It did provide that on all taxable incomes in excess of eleven thousand dollars the rates should be ten percent.

Assemblyman W. H. Edwards, Waukegan, attacked the bill claiming that the measure increased the present income tax rate 50 percent. He said that Wisconsin's income tax rate was higher than in other states which had income tax laws and that the states around Wisconsin did not have tax laws with as stringent provisions as those in Wisconsin.

Assemblyman W. H. Edwards of Trempealeau county introduced an amendment which would guarantee to an incorporation a six percent return on capital stock actually invested before the income tax should become effective. Opponents of this amendment, claiming he did not know what effect it will have. The amendment was killed by a vote of 46 to 42.

RUSH FOR LICENSES KEEPS CLERK BUSY

With the first of July only a few days distant, City Clerk Victor E. Hemming finds a big increase in his license business, especially in licensing saloons, dogs and taxicabs.

It is felt that there are more than 150 dogs running around the city without tags. A total of 278 dog licenses had been issued up to noon today, 70 less than the total number sold last year. A few more days of grace will be granted dog-owners in which to buy tags. Active steps will then be taken to rid the city of canines not licensed.

Merchants selling cigarettes are required to secure a license for this privilege before July 1. Twenty of these licenses have already been sold. There are still several taxicab drivers in the city who have not yet secured their licenses as required by the new city ordinance, which also provides for a $25 license fee on each taxicab owner with a $5 license for each additional cab operated by him. Drivers' licenses sell at $2 each. Applications must be filed with the clerk before the council meeting Monday night. No driver will be allowed to run a taxi after July 1, without a license.

"MA" BURDICK.
Pies and doughnuts have made many a cook famous in her own home town, but to have a million doughnuts hanging on your neck for just a minute at that doughnut "like mother used to make" is the honor bestowed solely upon "Ma" Burdick, noted Salvation army worker who is Janesville's guest today.

"Ma" and her army stove were always right on the job. There is no doubt of her popularity. It took the doughnuts just 12 minutes to eat 324 pies, which she had baked in record time of 12 hours.

"Ma" Burdick was a mother to every Yank overseas, even if she didn't get around to all of them. Her spirit spread clear through the corps of Salvation army lassies baking pies and doughnuts in other trails.

"Was this the special flavor in the baking?" "Ma" Burdick was 60 years old. She knew what her boys wanted. Her whole efforts of the war days were expended in caring for the boys as she knew their mothers would do, just as practically her whole life has been expended in caring for the boys "over here" who had forgotten just what mother had told them.

The Salvation army didn't make a new record during the war, it merely carried on more extensively the way it always had. But it did make a newly recognized record. The returned overseas soldiers have a warm spot in their hearts for the blue haired "Ma".

Mrs. Mary Burdick, who was the oldest woman worker overseas. She has just recently returned from Texas. She was gassed while working as close to the front as she could get. She is the wife of a Salvation army ensign.

"Ma" and "Pa" Burdick are here today in the interest of the Elks' drive for the Salvation army fund.

JUST SWIMMING.

The Lansing, Mich., State Journal, speaks as follows on woman's art of swimming:

"Many a woman never expects to venture far into the water than she is used to her chin, and so thinks it useless to learn to swim. Far from true! Swimming is one of the greatest beautifiers-known."

"Plenty of men do not like deep-water bathing, and would rather see their friends drown than get their ankles wet. But for all that, any man who wants to be in the pink of physical condition—over the tan, if you prefer—has only to swim regularly and he will find his wish gratified."

"Out of the millions who enjoy swimming, only a small percentage will ever be called upon for any life-saving deeds. That is the last reason in the world for learning to swim. But any one who loves fun, and enjoys the cooling effect of the water, and who would be glad to improve both health and looks should learn to swim."

"Man has not mastered air flight without the use of machinery, but it is possible to enjoy as exhilarating a feeling as must delight the bird who floats on his own wings if one will put laziness and timidity aside and learn the buoyancy of water and the delightful ease with which the body can be moved through it."

"Even if one never acquires courage to venture out into the cool blue water beyond his depth, he can still learn to swim in water where bottom can be touched by the exploring toe. But the truth is, that when one has learned to swim he has learned that to the swimmer no water is deep—it is only good to swim in."

THINKING AHEAD.

Cutting out a new dress without any idea what it is going to look like would be rather a hard job and a mass of things when you get through. Still they just seem to throw towns around, let the streets fall where they may.

There are more generations coming. This isn't the end of the world. While Janesville is in the process of renovation and rejuvenation a far-sighted glance or two would hardly be amiss. If you are building that house today just think what kind of a place it is going to be for your children 50 years from now.

Janesville has something coming. So they say. Dr. Nolen, city planner, advises us to be cleaning out the pockets and fling down the ragged edges so everything will fit in its proper place, when the time comes. Build today with your thoughts fixed on the next generation.

YOUTHS IN NEED.

The boys and girls of Janesville who are reared amidst the ideas of having to fight their own way in this man's world are in need of a guiding hand. F. F. Hill, director of the vocational school, whose death occurred last week, had voluntarily taken the children and their troubles under his wing. He had saved them, brought them back, worked with them, guided them. This guidance should not stop. The city does not provide a probation officer to aid its youths, youths who grow wayward because they do not know better. A chance for someone to rise to the call of humanity and to get some of the joy of helping others out of life is waiting. Volunteers are needed.

Although the weather man isn't on the job today, the first open air band concert of the season in Court House park tonight ought to prove an enthusiastic opening for a season's entertainment. If given proper support, the band concert will come again. Park hot-night loungers should stick to their posts tonight.

Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin senator, has again come into the limelight by being withdrawn from the spotlight. Some people's glory goes better on the reverse. Maybe his slogan is per Ringling's suggestion: "I don't care what they say about me just so they say something."

To be or not to be has become the popular version of the signing of the peace treaty. The Germans say they are coming, but we have been waiting all week to flash the news that peace is signed, and no chance yet. However, they'll "probably" sign Saturday.

Booze farewells, if they increase as the time grows shorter, will make a big bulge in Judge H. L. Maxfield's city purse, according to police reports of the last week or so.

Now that the crown prince has fled back to Germany, the wonder is how long will father let son have all the glory? There are more "flees" in the making, is the belief.

But the latest is that the crown prince has not left home. You never can tell.

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haas. Questions will be answered on any subject. Q. What is the explanation of the excessive growth of giants? W. R. A. Giants suffer from a disease of the gland at the base of the skull. An x-ray picture of the brain will show if this gland is affected. Children of abnormal growth or corpulence should be examined in this respect, and if affected, should be treated.

Q. How should Mary Smith, married to John Smith, be addressed? C. S. A. It is considered preferable to call her Mrs. John Smith. Should she be come a widow, however, she would be addressed as Mrs. Mary Smith.

Q. How may broken crockery be mended? S. W. A. One of the strongest cements, according to the Encyclopedia Americana, is applied, is lime and the white of an egg. To use it, take a sufficient quantity of the egg to mend one article at a time, shake off a quantity of lime, and mix thoroughly. Apply quickly to the edges, and place firmly together. Mix but a small quantity at a time, as it hardens quickly.

To be or not to be has become the popular version of the signing of the peace treaty. The Germans say they are coming, but we have been waiting all week to flash the news that peace is signed, and no chance yet. However, they'll "probably" sign Saturday.

Booze farewells, if they increase as the time grows shorter, will make a big bulge in Judge H. L. Maxfield's city purse, according to police reports of the last week or so.

Now that the crown prince has fled back to Germany, the wonder is how long will father let son have all the glory? There are more "flees" in the making, is the belief.

But the latest is that the crown prince has not left home. You never can tell.

Q. What is the explanation of the excessive growth of giants? W. R. A. Giants suffer from a disease of the gland at the base of the skull. An x-ray picture of the brain will show if this gland is affected. Children of abnormal growth or corpulence should be examined in this respect, and if affected, should be treated.

Q. How should Mary Smith, married to John Smith, be addressed? C. S. A. It is considered preferable to call her Mrs. John Smith. Should she be come a widow, however, she would be addressed as Mrs. Mary Smith.

Mix but a small quantity at a time, as it hardens quickly.

Comets and Stars.

Comets are erratic members of the solar system moving in orbits. Stars may be classified as fixed stars and planets, the planets revolving about the sun, while the position of the fixed stars relative to other heavenly bodies seems unvarying.

HEALTH OFFICER ISSUES STATEMENT ON HYDROPHOBIA

In connection with the mad dog scare which is prevalent throughout the city as the result of numerous cases of children being bitten, Dr. Fred B. Welch, city health officer, issued the following statement:

"During the past few days I have been called on the phone, and asked many questions about hydrophobia. I thought a few words on this subject would not be amiss.

"Rabies is an acute disease which is communicated to man by direct inoculation from an animal infected with the specific virus of this disease. As dogs are especially liable to this infection, most authentic cases are caused by people being bitten by these rabid animals. The wounds thus produced are inoculated with the virus from the saliva of the dogs' mouth.

This disease attacks chiefly the nervous system (brain, ganglia, spinal cord and nerves) and the symptoms are due to toxic action on these delicate structures.

"Prophylaxis (prevention) is of the greatest importance in preventing the spread of this disease. Only by the systematic muzzling of dogs can this disease be eradicated.

"Where there is the wise provision that all dogs must be muzzled, the disease is relatively rare. The police department of this city has issued an order that all dogs within the city limits must be muzzled. This order should be rigidly enforced and the people of the city should cooperate with the department and see that this order is properly carried out.

"Animals that have this disease, or are thought to have this disease should never be killed unless it is absolutely necessary. They should be confined and if they have the disease they usually die within seven days. Animals that remain normal after two weeks confinement do not have this disease and people bitten by these animals have no cause for worry. The State Laboratory of Hygiene gives the following instructions:

1. Don't kill animals unless absolutely necessary.
2. Confine in a comfortable place for two weeks.
3. Don't injure the head in killing.

LOS MATACHINES

Probably the strangest mixture of the ancient and the modern, and of Christian and Pagan rites, which can be seen in the world today, is the annual Mexican festival of the "Matachines."

To the white man can tell exactly what is the significance of this festival, which is celebrated in all parts of the Mexican republic every spring. Those who take part in it are typical Mexicans of Indian and Spanish blood, with some pure-bred Indians among them.

The dances are much like the war and harvest dances of the Aztecs, Comanches and other southwestern dancers flourish swords, and wear, by way of decoration, the tin tops of beer bottles.

The dancing is kept up for two or three days, and the ceremony ends with a dance about a great wooden cross which is set on a high hill near the town. This would seem to show Christian influence, and it probably does, but the cross is known to have been sacred to ancient Aztecs. Indeed this whole ceremony is undoubtedly of Aztec origin, with Christian elements added.

This bewildering mixture of Pagan and Christian religion is seen throughout the southwest. The "Penitentes" of Mexico and New Mexico are another example. On every Good Friday they whip themselves until the blood comes, as a penance, and crucify one of their number, with ropes. These fanatics claim to be Christians, but their practices have been condemned by the church, and like the Matachines, can be traced back to Aztec times.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Mildred Harris, wife of Charlie Chaplin, has signed a long term contract to appear in motion pictures produced by Louis B. Mayer. Miss Harris is said to have been paid a bonus of $100,000 for signing with Mayer, who announced she will be starred in a series of pictures by famous authors. Many offers have been made Miss Harris recently, including one from her famous husband, and it was only through the $100,000 bonus that Mayer won her over to his organization.

Mayer's company will pursue the open booking marketing method established by the big four, consisting of Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith.

Mildred Harris is the first star outside of the big four organization to join forces with an independent producer.

The Mayer organizations will have three stars to head their individual companies, specializing only in the pictureizations of famous books and stage plays. There will also be a carefully picked company to make four special feature pictures next year, employing all star casts.

Mr. Mayer also owns the Anita Stewart company.

Mildred Harris will be known hereafter in the Mayer productions by her legal name, Mildred Harris Chaplin.

ANOTHER TALENTED ON THE SCREEN

Natalie Talmadge, who recently arrived from the coast with her sister, Constance, is now a member of the cast of the next Norma Talmadge production. Natalie will play Janie, quite an important part in this story, by Arthur Hornblow.

Natalie Talmadge has appeared with both her sisters, Norma and Constance, in previous productions, but never before in quite so important a role; she has been associated in a business way with her sisters' companies and with Mackay Arbuckle company.

ENTER LYDIA YEAMANS TITUS

Lydia Yeamans Titus, daughter of the late Mrs. Annie Yeamans, brings another distinguished name to the Goldwyn studios, a name that has meant much in the history of the American stage. A generation ago Lydia Yeamans Titus was an international favorite, singing popular songs in a manner all her own. And today she is enabled, for the first time in her screen career, to be herself. She plays a stranded vaudeville artist, Geraldine Farrar in the diva's production, Mrs. Farrar greatly enjoys having Mrs. Titus sing some of the ditties with which she entertained the British crowned heads in the nineties.

Claims He Was Attacked.

La Crosse.—The gate finished its case against Louis Ruzh, railroad detective accused of killing two soldiers on the right of way of the Milwaukee road early in the morning of March 13 last, and stayovers for the defense announced that they would prove that the officer had been attacked and had shot and killed both men while his arms were held pinned to his sides. The victims were John B. Schomers and Fred Zunker, La Crosse men both.

Zuehl discovered them on the right of way of the road at midnight and placed them under arrest after which the shooting occurred.

THE WISHING PLANE

Before Captain Brave showed them the shape of this "U" with its men on the outside of the letter.

Rock, who led the allied armies, you know, had played a clever trick on the enemy at this point.

The enemy of course was on the inside of the letter. Then the allies' men on both sides of the letter and at the bottom moved forward at the same time. This meant that the enemy had to get out of the letter "U" in a hurry or be killed. The explanation was pretty deep for Jane, but Jack, just as every other boy would, Captain Brave drew a huge letter "U" on the ground and pointed out how the allied army had finally made enjoyed it immensely, and decided that if he ever got into a war he would use the same plan against whoever he was fighting, if he could.

Captain Brave pointed out that Chateau-Thierry was at the bottom of the "U" and that the Americans by their wonderful fighting at this point and their help at other points in the line had made possible this great plan.

He showed them how Rheims was at the top of one side of the letter, "U" and another city named Soissons was at the top of the other side.

They walked slowly around a section of the battle field at Chateau-Thierry and occasionally read the names on the little crosses on the graves. All of a sudden Jane called to Jack and the rest of them to come quick, and when they arrived at the bottom of the letter "U" they found Captain Brave had made a special note of them when the children's mother had told him of Uncle George.

"Oh, I do wish mother and father were here, too, to see where Uncle is buried," said Jane.

"I am afraid they couldn't come very well," said Ladydear, "but we can do lots of things that will make them glad that we found his grave."

When she suggested that they spend the rest of the day getting flowers and planting them around Uncle George's grave, the children of course agreed and said they'd be glad to help her.

"I wish there were some way we could see mother and father what we have done when we're through, and what the grave looks like," said Jack.

"Well, that is a simple matter," said Captain Brave. "When we get everything shipshape I will get the camera out of the airplane and we will take a picture of it."

This was the first thing the children knew about Captain Brave having a camera. It was just another one of the hundreds of surprises they had had, and were to have, on the trip.

The rest of the day was a busy one for the children, what with carrying flowers and digging up the dirt and cleaning up the ground around the grave.

They planted a little evergreen tree at the head of the grave and from one of the hundreds of places in the airplane where he had things stored, Captain Brave unearthed a little silk flag. The flowers planted on the grave were of many kinds and so selected that some of them would be blooming all summer, and a few of the more hardy ones would hold their heads up through the cold weather. They bought enough shrubs to make a little fence all around the mound, and what the grave looks like," said Jack.

When everything was completed, Captain Brave took several pictures of the grave. The children were awfully tired that night, but it was a happy tiredness, because they knew they had done something to make their loved one happy and to show their love for them and for Uncle George.

Over There and Over Here

OVER THERE

HONEST now, did you really think that the pale, frail girl in the dark blue bonnet who begged a few pennies from the busy passer-by would ever do all she did for our boys? She surprised you. Yes, you'll admit she made a big sacrifice—took a big chance and made good.

And what do the doughboys think of her? Every one of them would go through a Hell ten times worse than even Prussianism could conceive to pay back his debt to her. Well, if she's his friend she's yours. Now show your gratitude for the work she did "over there" by making her work over here a little easier.

OVER HERE

When she comes back—and let's not overlook her bigger brother—there'll be plenty of the old work to do right here. Disease, and crime don't call off their activities for even a world war.

Dank, dismal alleys reeking with destitution and despair loom up to take the places of the mud and blood soaked trenches of France. They are the battle ground on which Christianity must fight to redeem fallen humanity.

If you could grasp just an inkling of the good and happiness your money can bring, how glad you'd feel to give. So be a good fellow—help the Lass who fed doughnuts to our lads, for some day, maybe, one of these same lads who bled for you in France may need her help again. And you're not the kind who'll let money stand in the way of helping him and his, are you?

To be raised in a new way—without the old familiar tambourine. Every cent of it to be spent in America for Rescue Homes, Orphanages, Hospitals, Lodging Houses for the Poor, Day Nurseries, Infant Shelters, Industrial Centers, Free Clinics and Dispensaries, Fresh-Air Farms for Tenement Children, Shelters for the aged and helpless, Free Employment Bureaus, Prison and Rescue Work, Free Ice and Coal Stations, Comfort and Aid for the American boys who fought in the war and for their families and relatives.

With your money a man's body and soul can be held together.

Can you refuse to help?

Fish Go on "Souze"

Get 150 Gallons Whiskey

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Knoxville, Tenn.—When 2,300 bottles of whiskey containing approximately 150 gallons, worth about $6,000, were poured into the Tennessee river here the fishes had a big "souze" party. The whiskey was poured out in the presence of county officials. It was all that had accumulated since November, 1918.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please do not think when you read this that I am going to bore you with a deluge of letters. I give you my word that this will be the last one. I shall not pester you on your kindness. You probably laughed at my question as to answering my classmate. I suppose a nut not to have thought that I should answer with your last answer, and of course I was, especially about my mother knowing. I have always loved that, for she told me so herself before she died. I shall not tell her whole world was gone. I was such a mother's kid and not exactly fond of my dad at that time—he seemed so big and strong. I was trying hard to earn the good will of my stepmother, but I see where I will have to earn her friendship. I guess it will be a long time, though, being unfriendly so long. I've compromised on "mater." She doesn't mind and dad seems satisfied. For the first time I slipped on one of my studies this year, only a minor one. I was annoyed that I didn't make my full grade. He insists I've had my mind too much on the girls and forbids me going with girls all next year. I think that's a little unfair, but I'm simply not interested in that study and get little good out of it.

It is the same way with church. I've always been made to go with the rest every Sunday morning, but whether I'm inclined or not. Is that right? Anyway I can't do me much good, and when I can do as I please I'll go often. I don't mean by that I don't care for church. I like to go once a while, especially in the evening, but when I do I have to go with the folks when I had a lot rather go with some of my boy friends. I can't see the point of going to church about early hours. Can you? For instance, when I go to a school dance (any other kind is barred from my date slip) I always have to be in long before it is over so that I can be there for the scandalous hour of 11. Well by this time I guess you will think I have nothing but troubles. Being cocksure and frantically (dad's words) was advantages anyway. They're going to ship me off to the coast for the summer. I guess they want a rest. So in a couple of weeks I'm off for Portland to visit a bunch of cousins I've never seen. It's their loss, but I'm going to make up to them and have the time of my life. One is an aviator back from France and he has promised me some spins. If I don't go I'll surely have brain-storm or something.

Wishing you as pleasant a summer as I expect to have, I remain, gratefully yours, BOB.

Our letters interest me immensely, and I am sure that my readers enjoy hearing them just as much. Your compromise on "mater" is very clever. Your father probably appreciates your stubbornness more than he would be willing to admit. It was unfortunate that you should fall in one of our studies. A boy to get through any subject without spending a great deal of time in preparation. Probably you like to get your own way, and instead of getting yourself, and instead of the disagreeable work first, you spend your time on the studies you like best. Next year show your father that you are earnestly trying to please him. He will probably be impressed and will gladly let you have your own way some of the time.

When people go to church it is not usually to have a good time. There is a quietness about any church which is inspiring. Perhaps you would enjoy church more if you read about the different religious leaders, such as Jesus, Buddha, etc. You are imaginative and with historic background church might become more interesting to you. Continue to go with your parents and try to get a right attitude.

It seems a bit unreasonable to me that you should go home before your school parties are over. You are your father's son, and you should have a boy of your own and will understand then how much your father loves you and wishes for your success in life. His sternness sometimes hides his love from you. I wish you the happiest of summers and am sure that my readers join with me.

Bernie stepped tip-toed into it and shoved off. The river was a setting in fairyland. The moon, the lights and boat lights, and the voices of singers who passed merrily in other skirts, turned the night from a thing of oppression as it had been in the country into a living. Annie would have pattered to be silent and enjoy in her own way the soft air, the sound of slapping waves against the boat, the lights on the river's rim and on the great bridge to the north, the tinkle of music from the boat-houses as they glided through paths of orange light from their open doors. She longed to see the happy faces of her friends, but she had noticed that the "popular" girls talked and were lively.

To offset this handicap, Annie made a special effort to be entertaining. She found it easier than she thought, far easier than it had been to interest the coarse youths of the Coney Island joint, or Irv' Calberg at Tidelburg's academy.

She started by admiring Bernie's stroke at the oars. He was fond of athletics in a small way and proud of what he proved he possessed. He immediately catalogued Annie as a girl who appreciated a fellow, and repaid her by saying how pretty she looked in that frilly blouse with the moon light on her hair. Annie was too happy for words—yet she found words easily.

Before the evening was over she learned that the cardinal principle of interesting these young men that she truly cared to interest was never for an instant to relax her show of good nature; to be fearless, whether in trying a new dance or canoeing through the wash of a streamer; and to say the things that made them feel what splendid fellows they are.

RECIPES FOR A DAY.

Bean Croquettes.—Mash left over beans and add grated onion, two tablespoons of finely minced parsley, one teaspoon of paprika. Mold into croquettes and when roll in flour, dip in beaten egg and milk and then in fine bread crumbs. Fry until golden brown in hot fat.

Cranberry Peas.—Remove the peas from the pods and wash. Cook until soft in just enough boiling water to keep them from burning. Do not add salt until the peas are nearly done and avoid overcooking them especially when the young peas are used. Time will vary according to the age of the peas. There should be little if any water left to drain from the peas.

If any is left save it carefully and let it rise. It is unwise to add soda to soften the water or to decrease the time for cooking. Soda injures the flavor and probably destroys some of the most valuable properties of the peas, and other green vegetables.

Strawberry Shortcake.—Hull, wash and drain one quart strawberries. Place in dish with sugar to taste; if large, cut in two; prepare a rather rich baking powder biscuit dough; divide in half; roll out one piece to fit pie tin, spread with butter; roll out other piece and place on top.

Prick in several places with fork and bake in moderate oven about 20 or 25 minutes; split where it was buttered; place half of the berries, put other piece bottom side up on top and spread with remainder of berries. Eat with cream or top milk. Can be made into biscuit and made into individual shortcakes if liked.

TRY THESE.
Strawberry Fruitade.—Now that strawberries are plentiful in the market, try the fruitade on a hot day; you will find it refreshing.

Mash fine and drain two quarts of thoroughly ripe strawberries. Add a cupful of fresh pineapple juice, the juice of two or three lemons, three cups of white sugar melted with three cups of hot water. When cold add to it a pint of cracked ice, two quarts of pure water, and mix thoroughly. Serve with tiny cubes of ripe bananas and pineapple floating about in the glasses. This quantity will serve a company of people; if for some consumption, less may be made.

Honiny.—This costs but little and is nice for breakfast or supper. Place as much as you want to soak over night, then in the morning place in a large kettle with plenty of water, on the back of stove or over a slow fire and cook till tender. This could be cooked in a fireless cooker. Salt to taste. This is nice eaten with milk and sugar, or fried with bacon or ham drippings.

SPEND $195,000 ON ROOF.—London.—So far $195,000 has been spent on the restoration of the roof of Westminster Hall. It is estimated that work on the roof will be completed by May 1921.

SETTLED IT HIMSELF.—Mother—Why didn't you tell me when that boy threw stones at you, instead of throwing them back?
Kid—Tell you? Why, you couldn't hit a barn door.

THREE COWS FOR EVERY AUSTRALIAN.—It is estimated that Australia has cows enough to give each man, woman and child in the island continent three each, while Argentina can do even better. There are five cattle to each inhabitant in the big South American republic.

SIDE TALKS —By— RUTH CAMERON

ON PETTY FEUDS.
One often hears the country dweller make fun of or criticize the custom of the average city dweller of living for years without ever speaking to his next door neighbor or even to the man in the apartment across the hall. Of course, it isn't a natural way to live.

But what of the country dweller who lives years without even speaking to his next door neighbor or to the man in the house across the way. And who keeps silent not because he doesn't know him but because there is some sort of a feud between them. Is that a better or more natural way to live.

When the City Person Is Surprised.
Whenever a city bred person goes to live in the country one of the things which strikes him is the great number of petty feuds which exist among the people in the country or in a small town.

It is hard to tell whether these feuds are more unlovely or more ridiculous. When one sees two neighbors pass each other looking fixedly the other way and knows the reason they refuse to be friends is that nine years ago they had an argument over the pedigree of a dog belonging to one of them, one hardly knows whether to smile or be sad. It is so absurd and ridiculous that one cannot help being amused. And yet it is such an unbecoming, unhappy way to live that one cannot help being sorry.

They Embellish the Whole Town.
Often the principals in such cases manage to get a lot of people to side with them and thus a small feud will involve half the town. A letter from an elderly man who has been my letter friend for many years started me on this train of thought. He is a successful farmer, evidently well-educated and one of the best thinkers I know. He set me to thinking about feuds not because he writes about any feud of his. On the contrary, here is the passage from his letter:

"I have lived here all my life and I am on friendly terms with everyone I know. I won't be any other way. When anything gets crossed I think out a way to straighten it out."

Could You Make That Boast?
How many people, country or city, could make a boast like that?

Elsewhere in the letter is another passage which helps to explain this: "I used to think that I had to do a mean thing to get even when I was mad with anybody but I found out that was the wrong way as it made a mean act coming or going all the time. So I started doing a good one for a mean one, the first opportunity at the time they expected a mean one. They will then try to do a good one which makes good acts forever afterward. I have only one neighbor that didn't stop the bad ones for all time."

Sometime we will have to get him to tell us how he deals with that one neighbor, won't we? That will make another chapter on petty feuds.

I left the craggy bluff facing the sea and plunged into the woods. I had no idea how dark it was going to be, but, coming out of the sun, I was at once bewildered by the deep and complicated gloom of massed branches overhead, and the denser darkness of shrubs and vines so intricately interwoven as almost to make a solid wall about one. Then the atmosphere was so close and alluring that a fear of suffocation combined at once with the other fear of being swallowed up in all this savage green life, without hope of finding one's way out again into the sun. I fought my way in but a very few yards when both these fears clutched hold of me with a sudden horror, and the perspiration poured from me; I could no longer distinguish between the way I had come and any other part of the wood! Indeed, there was no way anywhere!

I must have battled through the veritable inferno of vegetation for at least an hour—though it seemed a lifetime. Clouds of particularly unpleasant midges filled my eyes, not to speak of mosquitoes and a peculiar kind of persistent stinging fly was adding to my miseries, when at last, begrimed and dripping with sweat, I stumbled out, with a cry of thankfulness, on to comparatively fresh air and something like a broad avenue running north and south through the wood. It was indeed densely overgrown, and had evidently not been used for many years. Still, it was comparatively passable, and one could at least see the sky and take long breaths once more.

Still there was no sign of a house anywhere. Presently, however, as I stumbled along I noticed something looming darkly through the matted forest on my left that suggested walls. Looking closer, I saw that it was the ruin of a small stone cottage, roofless, and indescribably swallowed up in the pitiless scrub. And then, near by, I discerned another such ruin, and still another—all, as it were, sunk in the terrible gloom of the vegetation, as sometimes, at low tide, one can discern the walls of a ruined village at the bottom of the sea.

Evidently I had come upon a long-abandoned settlement, and presently, on some slightly higher ground to the left, I thought I could make out the half-submerged walls of a much more ambitious edifice. Looking closer, I noted, with a thrill of surprise, the beginning of a very narrow path, not more than a foot wide, leading up through the scrub in its direction. Narrow as it was, it had clearly been kept open by the not-infrequent passage of feet. With a certain eerie feeling, I edged my way into it, and after following it for a hundred yards or so, found myself close to the roadside ruin of a spacious stone house with something of the appearance of an old English manor house. Multitudinous windows, finely masoned, opened in the shattered wall, and an elaborate stone staircase, in the interior of which stout shrubs were growing, gave, or once had given, an entrance through an arched doorway—an entrance now stoutly disputed by the glistening trunk of a gum-elastic tree and countless matted ropelike roots of giant vines and creepers that writhed like serpents over the whole edifice. Forcing my way up this staircase, I found myself in a stone hall some sixty feet long, at one end of which yawned a huge fireplace, its flue mounting up through a finely carved chimney, still standing firmly at the top of the southern gable.

How had this almost baronial magnificence come to be in this far-away corner of a desert island? At first I concluded that here was a relic of the brief colonial prosperity of the Bahamas, when its cotton lords lived like princes, with a slave population for retainers—days when even the houblosses in Nassau played pitch-and-toss with gold pieces; but as I considered further, it seemed to me that the style of the architecture and the age of the building suggested an earlier date. Could it be that this had been the home of one of those early eighteenth century pirates who took pride in flaunting the luxury and pomp of princes, and who had perhaps made this his headquarters and stronghold for the storage of his loot on the return from his forays on the Spanish Main? This, as the more spirited conjecture, I naturally preferred, and, in default of exact information, decided to accept.

The more I pondered upon this fancy and remarked the extent of the ruins—including several subsidiary outbuildings—and noted, too, one or two choked stone staircases that seemed to descend into the bowels of the earth, the more plausible it seemed. In one or two places where I suspected underground cellars—dungeons for unhappy captives held, or strong vaults for the storage of the treasure—I tested the floors by dropping heavy stones, and they seemed unmistakably to reverberate with a hollow rumbling sound, but I could find no present way of getting down into them. As I said, the staircases that promised an entrance into them were choked with debris. But I promised myself to come some other day, with pick and shovel, and make an attempt at exploring them.

Meanwhile, after poking about in as much of the ruins as I could penetrate, I stepped out through a gap in one of the walls and found myself again on the path by which I had entered. I noticed that it still ran on farther north, as having a destination beyond. So leaving the haunted ruins behind, I pushed on and had gone but a short distance when the path began to descend slightly from the ridge on which the ruins stood; and there, in a broad square hollow before me, was the wet, come living green of a flourishing plantation of coconut palms! It was evipalms were very thick and planted close together. To my surprise, too, I observed, as at length the path brought me to them after a sharp descent, that they were fenced in by a high bamboo stockade, for the most part in good condition, but here and there broken down with decay.

Through one of these gaps I presently made my way and found myself among the soaring columns of the palms, hung aloft with clusters of the great green nuts. Fallen palm fronds made a carpet for my feet—very pleasant after the rough and tangled way I had traveled, and now and again one of the coco nuts would fall down with a thud amid the green silence. One of these, which narrowly missed my head, suggested that here I had the opportunity of quenching very agreeably the thirst of which I had become suddenly aware. My despatched soon made an opening through the tough shell, and, sent on to it, raising the nut above my head, allowed the "milk"—cool as spring water—to gurgie deliciously down my parched throat. When at length I had drained it, and my head once more returned to its natural angle, I was suddenly made aware that my parching had not gone unobserved. "What ha!" called a pleasant voice, evidently belonging to a man of an unusually tall and lean figure who was approaching me through the palm trunks; "so you have discovered my hidden paradise—my Alcinous garden, so to say; and he quoted two well-known lines of Homer in the original Greek, adding: "or if you prefer it in Pope's translation, which I think—don't you?—remains the best:

Close to the gates a spacious garden lies, From storms defended and inclement skies—"and so on. Alas! for an old man's memory! It grows shorter and shorter—like his life, eh? Never mind, you are welcome, sir, stranger, mysterious, tossed up here like Ulysses, on our island coast."

I gazed with natural wonderment at this strange individual, who thus in the heart of the wilderness had saluted me with a meticulously pure

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put a Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which the condition of being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing sagging and drooping shoulders and angles by the soft curved lines of beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who feel thin and weak. Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by Smith-Drugg Co., in Jamesville and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphate food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

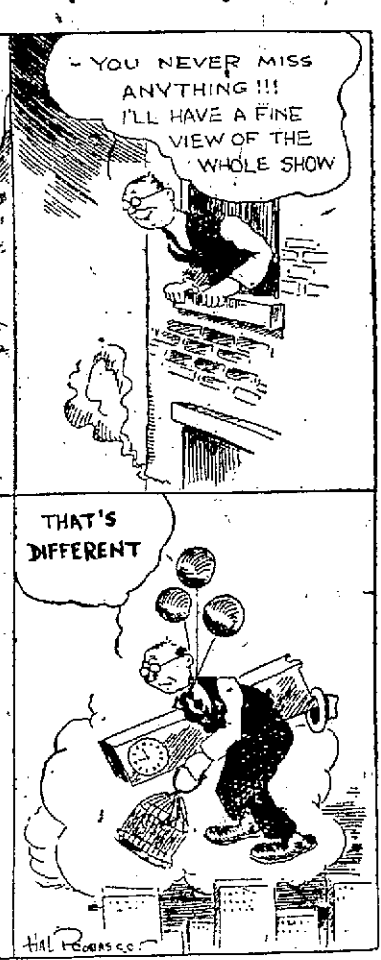

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health. Miss Georgia Hamilton, who was once thin and frail, reporting her own experience, writes: "Bitro-phosphate has brought about a magic transformation with me. I gained 15 pounds and never before felt so well."

CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

English accent, and welcomed me in a quotation from Homer in the original Greek. Who, in the devil's name, was this odd character who, I saw, as he had looked closer at him, was, as he had hinted, quite an old man, though his unusual erectness and sprightliness of manner, lent him an illusive air of youth? Who on earth was he—and how did he happen in the middle of this haunted wood?

NEVER DEIGN TO EXPLAIN

Japanese Have a Peculiar Philosophy Which Westerners Find It Rather Hard to Understand.

A Philadelphia lady, now resident in Japan, has written to a friend in her home city a letter which the Public Ledger reproduces in part, because it is "so fine in its reading from within of the Japanese nation and nature."

Mrs. Nitobe says: "I am hoping that the light may soon dawn upon the uninformed mind of America in reference to the true thought of Japan."

"It is part of the Samurai training not to explain. 'If you are wrong, show that you acknowledge your error by changing your conduct. No amount of explanation can set the wrong right. If you are right and your accuser is mistaken, time will make manifest the justice of your cause.' This is the underlying thought of this particular teaching. It is, I believe, often carried too far—certainly, it may prove misleading to an impatient westerner, and I do not hesitate to say that I have at times resented the situation it has created."

"On the other hand, it is impossible to bare one's soul to the unsympathetic or curiously minded. 'Every man or woman of fine feeling knows that, and the Japanese are singularly sensitive to a sympathetic or an unsympathetic, a coarse or an understanding, probing.'"

MY HEAD!

When the head feels thick or aches, when one feels all out-of-sorts—perhaps a c o a t e d tongue—it is the signal that poisons are accumulating in the system, and should be cleaned out at once.

Auto-intoxication can be best ascribed to our own neglect or carelessness. When the organs fail in the discharge of their duties, the putrefactive germs set in and generate toxins—actual poisons, which fill one's own body.

Sleepiness after meals, flushing of the face, extreme lassitude, biliousness, dizziness, sick headache, acidity of the stomach, heartburn, offensive breath, anemia, loss of weight and muscular power, decrease of vitality or lowering of resistance to infectious diseases, disturbance of the eye, dyspepsia, indigestion, gastritis, many forms of catarrh, asthma, ear affections and allied ailments result from auto-intoxication or self-poisoning.

Take castor oil, or procure at the drug store, a pleasant vegetable laxative, called Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, composed of May-apple, aloes and jalap.

Dinner Stories

It was the day after the hodge-podge picnic and Hogan was in a bad way.

"Och, murthee, Honora," he groaned.

"It's me insides that's burning up intirely."

"Dye think, Mike, that ye could get the foire under control with a bottle of beer?" asked Mrs. Hogan.

"Och, dunno," said Hogan, "but any way it would help to wet down the ruins."

A headache and repeated demands from a four-year-old daughter had kept Mrs. Horton awake nearly all night.

At 5 in the morning, when she had at last dropped sound asleep, the little girl called softly from her crib:

No answer. Again a little louder. "Mother!"

Mother said nothing. Again the child's voice, this time still louder: "Mother!"

"Well, what is it?"

Mother, isn't it too bad that one of Harry McCole's pillows died?"

Mr. Tompkins was obliged to stop overnight at a small country hotel. He was shown to his room by the one-boy the place afforded.

"I'm glad there's an escape here in case of fire," commented Mr. Tompkins as he surveyed the room; "but what's the idea of putting a prayer-book in the room in such a prominent place?"

"That," replied the boy "is intended for use in case the fire is too far advanced for you to make your escape, sir."

"Would you call Jones a well-informed man?"

"Jones? Why, I venture to say that Jones couldn't name six men on his home team."

Heroic French War Dog, Honored by Army, Now An American, Thanks to Y. M. C. A. Man

Loost, Credited With Two Official Citations, Spent Years in No Man's Land on Slopes of Verdun Fighting Outposts from German Raids and Patrols.

If the army were the eyes of the army, this dog was the ears of the army. For two years he lay, every night out in no man's land, watching and listening for German patrols and raiding parties.

His name is Loost, and as a real veteran of the war he has two citations to his credit for having saved French troops from surprise attacks by Hun patrols on the outer defenses of Verdun. So acute is Loost's hearing that

So well did he do this that the president of the War Dog society, from admiration of McKelvey's work, and promising McKelvey's love of dogs, promised him a canine war hero to bring to America and give a home.

Loost does not know a word of English and has to be spoken to in French, but when talked to in his native tongue he seems to understand anything the "Y" man says. On the liner on the way home at McKelvey's order, Loost climbed a ladder. "Go ahead! Go up, Loost!" got only a puzzled stare and a whine, but when McKelvey

First League Games Will Be Played Tomorrow

SIX TEAMS ARE SET FOR REAL FIGHTS

BY KID BIFF

The opening gun of the 1919 City Baseball league will be fired tomorrow afternoon when three big games will be staged—two at the new diamond owned by the Samson company, and the third at the fair grounds. Since its inception at the first meeting just a week ago today, interest in the league has been growing until its success seems assured.

Efforts are being made by Physical Director Craig of the Y. M. C. A. to secure a cup for the league champions. So far, nothing definite has been reached in this matter. If a cup is not donated locally, it will be necessary to appeal to some sporting goods house to put up a prize.

As the league now stands, there are six teams—Hough, Shude, Samson, Janesville Machine, Janesville Products, Barb Wire, Parker Pen—with a slim possibility of two more teams getting into the race. It was at first thought that the Rals might be induced to come in but the majority of members of that team are unable to play Saturdays. The Woolens, who have shown no signs of interest, has shown no signs of interest.

The revised schedule of the opening games tomorrow follows:

Samson Tractor vs. Janesville Machine—2:00 at Samson park.

Parker Pen vs. Barb Wire—3:30 at Samson park.

Hough Shude vs. Janesville Products—2:00 at fair grounds.

Captains and managers are urged to have their men on the field at least a half hour before the game is called. Each team will alternate in using the diamond for a work-out before the game. The operation of players game with their captains and managers will go a long way toward making everything go big.

There seems to be little dispute about the difference between the two teams. The managers of managers today were only tentative and they were unable to give out anything definite on the strength of the nines tomorrow.

Of course the Samson Tractors look good on paper and are slated to pick off a win in their game with the Janesville Machine. There is such a wide margin of material at the tractor plant that things look good for a victory—their one-point 11-inning win over the Products gang last Saturday has made them favorites of the league. George Berger will probably do much duty with Harmon behind the plate.

The Products boys have been doing quite a little boxing and are reputed to be good ball players, but the Hough Shude crew threatens to take them down a peg when they hook up in tomorrow's round fight. It always has a good team and so far that reason they are booked as having the edge on the Barb Wire outfit.

That the game tomorrow will draw out a big crowd was the prediction made today. Although the quality of baseball may not be of as high a caliber as fans like to watch, they are willing to make a good bet on it. They can see a good close game.

Manager Jones for Samson has the following ready for the turn-out: Skelton, 1b; Dopp, ss; Harmon, rf; Shude, 3b; Harris, cf; Bond, who by the way is one of the speediest third sackers in the state, will get into the mix-up, while the second sack will be covered by Miller, out sed.

Janesville Machine will have the following: Babcock, 1b; Dodge or Brummond, cf; "Babe" Sullivan, rf; Hemming, 3b; McGinley, 2b; Marko, 1b; Ware, ss; Crowley, c; Bick, p.

OLLIE PECORD CHOSEN REFEREE OF BIG BOUT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Toledo, June 25.—Ollie Pecord, official referee of the Toledo boxing commission will be the referee in the ring when Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey meet in their heavyweight championship contest here July 4.

Tex Rickard, promoter of the contest and Major A. J. Drexel Biddle, a wealthy sportsman of Philadelphia, were selected to serve with Pecord as judges of the contest. Jack Skelly, a veteran ring official of New York, was chosen alternate referee and W. Warren Barbour of New York official time keeper.

Appointment of these officials was made by Promoter Rickard today upon the receipt of a telegram from Adam Empe, secretary of the army, navy and civilian board of boxing control which undertook the task of making the selection. Biddle is president of the boxing control board.

The announcement that Rickard and Biddle have been named judges caused a sensation. Pecord's selection as referee had been foreseen, but the names of Rickard and Biddle had scarcely been specified with the official question.

Major Biddle has been prominently identified with the fight. A few years ago he was regarded as one of the best amateur boxers in the United States and at one time fitted up a gymnasium in his Philadelphia residence and engaged "Phil" Thompson, Jack O'Brien, then one of the best of the middle and light heavyweights of the professional ring, to put on the gloves with him.

Major Biddle came from an old and distinguished Philadelphia family. He was in the service of the nation during the war and since the armistice has signed his name to his efforts to keep boxing on the high plane it gained through sanction of the government during the war. He was one of the organizers of the army, navy and civilian boxing control.

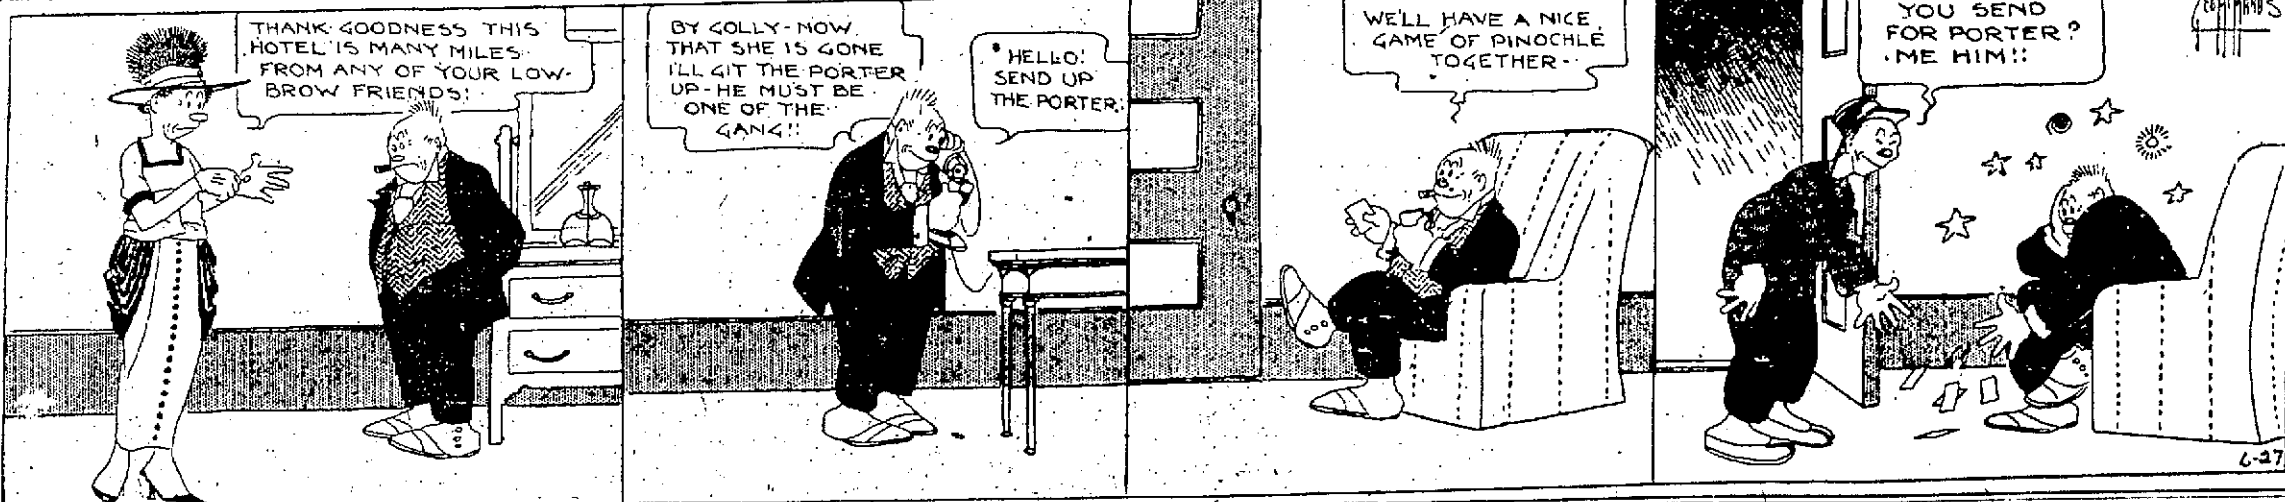

When Jeffries and Johnson were unable to agree on the third man in the ring for their championship contest at Reno, Nevada, in 1910, Rickard, who was the promoter of that battle, referred it with the confidence of both men. The Jeffries-Johnson fight was the only contest in which Rickard ever officiated.

When Jess Willard Holds "Open House"

WHEN JESS HOLDS OPEN HOUSE IN THE HOTEL LOBBY

By N. E. BROWN.

Toledo, O., June 27.—Toledoans and visitors to the city saw very little of Jack Dempsey, although the Overland club, where he is training for his coming battle with Champion Jess Willard, is only about five miles from the heart of the city. Jack sticks close to his camp and spends his spare hours swimming or playing cards or chatting with his associates.

But Big Jess shows up in town every day and his favorite stopping place is on one of the huge lounges in the lobby of the Secor hotel. He lolls at one end of the lounge and chats with acquaintances and friends of theirs from noon until time to go out to his training camp for his afternoon workout. And he's talkative, too, during these sessions. He tells anecdotes of his early life, of roping wild horses and hunting game. He discusses some of his fights and talks a little about his coming mill.

It's a great opportunity for folks who know the champ to bring up other folks who want to know him—just to be able to say they met him and shook hands with him. One thing that is making Willard more popular daily is the pleasant manner in which he greets these strangers and answers their barrage of queries.

Tex Rickard, the man behind the fight, is in and out of the hotel while in Toledo and stops once in a while for a few words with Willard. This gives the bugs another eye feast. Monahan, Hemple and Willard's other sparring mates, come in for their share of notice when they appear.

Ike Dorgan, publicity man and general aide to the promoters is always on

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE.

Tex Rickard has not made a radical move in making the ring for the Willard-Dempsey battle to 20 feet on each side. Willard boxed Luther McCarthy, Arthur Pelky, Soldier Kearns and Frank Moran in a 20 foot ring at Madison Square Garden. The time honored 24-foot ring seldom has been used for big fights in this part of the country. In a 20 foot enclosure Willard and Dempsey must stand up and battle without much of a chance to employ footwork. The boxing fans who attend the mill at Toledo will desire action and plenty of it. The ring selected by Rickard should insure a decisive encounter.

In the 100-mile auto derby, to be decided at the Sheepshead Bay speedway on July 4, it is said that the biggest field of international stars that ever started in a race in this country will go to the post. It will be the first real test in the east of all the modern racing machines. A sample of what can be expected of some of these fast fliers was had in the international races at the bay when Tommy Milton created new world's figures in the 10-mile event. In the race on the fourth, Milton will have as team mates Eddie O'Donnell and Dave Lewis. The latter two will have specially built Duesenberg cars.

Among the drivers who are said to be anxious to get into the 100-mile classic are Roscoe Searles, who is piloting one of Barney Oldfield's olden Submarines, and Jules Goux, the noted French driver who finished third in Indianapolis. Goux has a Peugeot that has turned over 122 miles an hour in trial spins. He beat one of the famous Ballot cars in one of the elimination trials in Indianapolis.

The card on July 4 also will include a match and a short-distance sprint. There is said to be a good prospect, too, of a match between Wilcox and De Palma.

Summering in the Pacific Northwest

The Northwest! What a Land of Adventure! Its trails—on land and sea—blazed by Lewis and Clark, by Astor, by Bering, by Vancouver.

A land of glaciers and rose festivals—of blue lakes in the bowls of ancient craters—of snow-capped peaks—of sheltered seas—of mighty rivers and the lure of golden sands. A land, too, of thriving cities and modern motor highways.

A vast, cool summer playground where one may enjoy outdoor life in the mountains and by the sea, and where one may visit great National Parks.

Go this summer. En route see some of the other National Parks of the Far West, returning (if desired) through California.

The Villain Still Pursued Her

He was "that city feller," and he came snooping around the girl you thought you owned. He began spending dimes like nickels. Curses! You realized that a fellow must spend money on a girl. Well, handsome stranger, we shall see, we shall see.

Then came "The Old Homestead," and you invited her to sit with you in the two best seats in the house. Goodness! How that piece oozed villainy and virtue! How wicked the great metropolis, how peaceful and rugged and good-clear-through the country-side beneath the friendly star!

The city dude didn't have a look-in after that night; he faded entirely from your knowledge until you met him just the other day. He had grown up to be a preacher, with a large family. He inquired about Stella, and you had to tell him that "The Old Homestead" had done its work only too well. Stella had passed you up also and married a sure-enough farmer.

All the same, they were great old days, and you can recover a bit of their charm by lighting up a SENERO, the cigar of pleasant memories.

BILL ON INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM IS LOST IN SENATE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, June 27.—With the killing of the original amendment and two substitutes, all proposition to embody the initiative and referendum principle in the constitution, came to an end Thursday night in the senate. Senator Wilcox made an effort to save the proposal by offering the amendment which was defeated at the general election of 1904. This was voted down 25 to 44. The senate then defeated the Roethe substitute, which proposes the referendum, without the initiative. The only question remaining was the original fourth resolution. Senator Dugan remarked that the objection to this resolution was that it wiped out the entire state constitution at one swoop. It was killed by a four by five vote of the members. The senate crossed the Nolan bill through the state board of conciliation

A more searching investigation of the old age pension question is desired by the senate, which engaged a bill to create an interim committee to report to the next session. The bill appropriated $1,500 for expenses. Senator Conroy, a member of the legislative committee named two years ago which reported against the pension system to this session, and proposed this amount was excessive, and proposed an amendment which put the bill at $5,000. This was defeated. 16 to 13.

MAGNUS SWENSEN WRITES OF RELIEF WORK IN FINLAND

Magnus Swensen, Madison, former state food administrator, now in Copenhagen, who was sent to Norway and Sweden last winter with the American Relief Commission, has written the following letter to Mrs. Paul Iverson, Academy street, with whom he lived when a boy.

"Dear Aunt: I am still in Copenhagen, but I hope before long to be able to get back home. I have had a very busy time since I came over, and very new experiences.

"I spent part of March and April in Finland where people were without food and were subsisting on moss, bark and even flour made from wood. Many thousands died and it was only by the timely aid of America that at least half of the population were saved from death by hunger. We borrowed food from Norway and Denmark and got ships up through the ice by having big ice breakers go ahead of the steamers carrying the food and we lost only one steamer, which sunk in shallow water outside of Stockholm.

"When I went up there in March it was like a north pole expedition as we went crashing through the ice all the way across the Baltic. At Abo, where we landed, I was met by the officials, who conducted me to General Munnerheim's private car, in which I went to Helsinki, and all the way people came to the stations to thank me for saving their lives. Several places they had their singing clubs where they sang their quaint Finnish songs. When I arrived in Helsinki I had a great reception and I never saw a more grateful lot of people. They had a big American flag flying over the hotel where I was stopping all the time I was there.

"When in Stockholm I called several times on Aunt Severine. She was with the Hedbergs, and I had a nice visit.

"I expect Annie over next month when we will go to England and then possibly over to Norway and then home.

"Yours, MAGNUS."

YOUNG FOLKS MUST NOT TRY TO SWIM RIVER, BADGER SAYS

Parents of children who are flocking to the beaches these warm days to escape the intense heat are urgently requested to warn the children against swimming across the river. The beaches are provided for the recreation of the children and it is feared that some of the young folks will lose their lives if they attempt to swim the river.

Alderman Badger of the First ward in discussing the rescue of William McDonough, Tuesday night, said that it was imperative that the young folks be instructed not to attempt to swim the river.

Many of the young folks start across the river and in attempting to buck the swift current they become weak and it is then that the guards come to save them. Alderman Badger said: William McDonough who was pulled from a watery grave Tuesday night owes his life to G. Heinemann, general supervisor of the beaches and river guards. Mr. Heinemann assisted by E. H. Lecture of the Gazette succeeded in getting the boy in a boat after he attempted to swim the river.

Mr. Heinemann, accompanied by witnesses, was the first to reach the boy. Mr. Lecture reached the pair a short time later and assisted in the rescue.

Songs by the Sea

By REV. GEORGE GUILLE
Extension Department, Moody Bible
Institute, Chicago

TENT—Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the Lord—Ex. 15:1.

The first song in the Bible! And on the wilderness side of the sea!

Long ages before, at the dawn of creation, there had been a song, "when the morning stars sang together and all the sons of God shouted for joy," but that infinite anthem has not been preserved nor the words of the song recorded. God seems to have hastened in his account of creation in order to tell out at length, his mightier work of redemption. He made man by his breath; he saves him by his blood. It is in what he has done for man's redemption that he is to be forever glorified, and while the symphony of the stars still rings in his ears, yet here, at the Red sea, is sweeter music for his heart than theirs, and of such delight to him that he writes down every word of it as a part of Holy Scripture.

No song had Israel in Egypt, but sighs and groans and a cry. But now they are out of Egypt and Canaan looms before their eyes. The chains of bondage were snapped on the Passover night when, sheltered by that all-protecting blood, the judgment that fell upon Egypt passed over them. Now their deliverance is a realization. Fursued by Pharaoh's armies and hemmed in between the mountains and the sea, they cry out in a frenzy of despair. When lo! the sea divides and through it they go dry-shod and unharmed to the other side. And looking back they saw the sea that had opened to let them out of Egypt closing to shut them out and closing over their enemies. Then they sang!

The passage of the sea has put them in a wilderness, and yet they sing. And the wilderness is just what this world has become to those who know what that mighty work of the cross has done for them and who, in spirit, have seen just beyond the wilderness the heavenly Canaan to which that cross has secured an enduring title. And this song of praise from the hearts of redeemed sinners who have looked across the place of death and beheld a triumphant Savior is what our Father God is waiting still to hear.

And now can we sing, for by this way of the sea have we come into this pilgrim path with God. It is the shepherd's hand that holds that rod stretched out across the sea. And our Shepherd who giveth his life for the sheep has opened for us a safe path through his death. That "strong east wind" of adversity blowing through all that night of his anguish on the cross, where for our sins he was nailed, has cleared a way for us by which we pass out of Egypt, out of the whole sphere to which the "law of sin and death" applies. Christ's death, in all its value, is ours, and our hearts, once desolate because of sin, have now a song.

In vain does one look to this for anything that man has done. Such a note would make an awful discord. Every word of this is the celebration of what Jehovah has done, and its first strain tells of the source of all praise: "I will sing unto Jehovah for he hath triumphed gloriously." It is this that makes melody in the heart. As Israel saw, so have we seen a triumphant Savior, and that sets the heart a-singing.

The second measure celebrates the deliverance. It was all the work of God. We only looked on. Alone he wrought and without any assistance from us. Alone he dashed that work to which we could add nothing save to mar it.

But not power alone is necessary for salvation, and the third stanza tells of God's holiness. "Glorious in holiness" is he who has saved us, so that the very holiness that was against us as sinners is now on our side making us secure. And here is another source of praise.

And this gives complete assurance as to the future, for "Thou leadest in thy mercy the people thou hast redeemed; thou guidest them with thy might to thy holy habitation." There are no misgivings as to the end and no slandering God with expressions of railroads and fear. Such things cannot exist in the heart that knows the triumph of Christ.

In the fourth measure of the song they see all enemies laid low. And the Christian counterpart of this is the challenge of Rom. 8:31-33, "If God be for us who can be against us? Who is he that condemneth?"

The song closes with the land of promise as the end of the journey: "Thou shalt plant them in the mountain of thine inheritance." And in these words we hear our Lord saying to us, "I go to prepare a place for you . . . that where I am there ye shall be also." A prepared place for a prepared people, and God leading the way into it. There is no more to say and the song closes.

O soul, hast thou learned to sing?

LITTLE TALKS ON TREES
THE AMERICAN FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

Copyright 1919, by The International Syndicate.

RED SPRUCE

THIS newspaper is probably made of red spruce, for that tree furnishes about 70 per cent. of the pulpwood used in the United States. You will see it piled up along the banks or floating down the streams in various parts of the Appalachian region from way up at the northern edge of New England down into West Virginia and North Carolina. This is being taken to pulp mills to be made ready for the newspaper which you read. Length and toughness of fibre are needed for pulpwood, and red spruce is a leader in this respect. Furthermore it is not such a costly wood that lumbermen bid against the paper manufacturers for it. Spruce is, however, used for a number of purposes, extending all the way from building material to wooden pie plates.

There are three species of spruce found in the United States, red, white and black spruce. The white spruce is so called because of its grayish white bark and is the largest and handsomest of the eastern species, occasionally attaining a height of 150 feet. The black spruce enjoys its name from the very dark cast of its leaves. The red spruce seems to derive its name from the reddish brown cast to the bark of the mature tree, yet in the woods where it is common it is referred to simply as spruce, while the others are referred to by the fuller name. It is not noted for its great size, seldom reaching a height of 100 feet.

Red spruce reverses the characteristics of most trees and grows faster as it grows older. In youth it is one of the slowest growing trees we have. It remains of seedling or sapling size often for upwards of half a century. The spruces make desirable ornamental trees, but the red spruce is generally too slow growing for this purpose. The most common spruce seen in cultivation in the Eastern United States is the Norway spruce, an importation from Europe.

Any questions on trees will be answered by the American Forestry Association of Washington. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN TO OUST ANARCHISTS IS PART OF BILL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, June 27.—The senate began consideration today of a bill which, as dry civil appropriation bill, carries provisions for a vigorous campaign by the department of justice against anarchists and other dangerous alien radicals. In addition to $300,000 as a special fund to be devoted to the rounding up and deportation of dangerous alien radicals, the committee recommended appropriation of $1,400,000 to the department of justice in general suppression of crime.

The bill also provides for continuing permanently wartime regulations as to purchase of storage, manufacture, sale, and distribution of explosives. Enforcement of the regulations will be under the direction of the bureau of mines.

The usual appropriation bill, which was passed in the senate virtually as reported by the committee and now goes to conference committee, has a total of about $644,000,000. It is $44,000,000 more than the house bill provides and a stiff fight in conference is anticipated. Provision is made for an estimated strength of 15,000 men for September 30 to the end of the year as opposed to the house plan for a force of 170,000 after January 1, entailing an increase for pay of $12,000,000.

An amendment to give the floor to Senator Clegg to give evidence in the army, navy and marine corps made after February 1, 1917, war time status was adopted.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, June 27.—Secret service agents of the treasury department are said to have struck a veritable gold mine here in prospecting in the back yard of Charles H. Turnbull, a trusted employee in the manufacturing room of the treasury department and re-entrusted more than $55,000 in redeemable treasury notes buried in tin cans and other receptacles several feet below the surface of the earth. Thousands of dollars in partly mutilated notes were also reported by the agents to have been discovered hidden in the walls, under carpets, and in every conceivable manner waiting to be rendered negotiable again by a process of piecing together.

Turnbull was charged with embezzlement of the notes in an indictment returned by the grand jury, and when taken into custody police said they found on his person several thousand dollars in notes freshly appropriated.

CHECKERED CAREER OF DEAR, BANDIT, ENDS WITH HANGING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, June 27.—The checkered career of Earl Dear, bandit, gunman and gangster, came to an end today when he paid the death penalty for the slaying of Rudolph Wolfe, a chauffeur.

Earl "The Immune" Dear became known in police circles, because of his ability to slip through the legal nets that many times closed in on him, was a member of a notorious band of criminals that was finally rounded up after a sensational jail break here last year.

In the killing of Wolfe, Dear was accompanied by Eugene Hartnett, another notorious gangster, who was arrested at the same time and sentenced to 14 years in prison, a sentence he is now serving.

Dear was sentenced to be hanged. This sentence brought a long legal battle, and in a final attempt to have the sentence repealed, Dear appealed to the governor, who on recommendation of the division of paroles and pardons, refused to take action.

Dear's criminal career dates back several years. In 1916 he was arrested three times for burglary and once for receiving stolen property, and finally was sentenced to a year in jail. He was released in September, 1917. The following January he was arrested for a long-term robbery suspect, but was released shortly. That very night he was captured after the murder of Wolfe.

It was while confined in jail that Dear came in contact with other members of the gang, including Lloyd Bopp, who was hanged for murder, Frank McElrath, whose trip to the police was a long one, and "Big Joe" Moran, notorious for his ability to break jail.

The escape was planned to the finest detail and was successfully carried out. A nation-wide search was begun. Finally the men were located here in Chicago, in a house in the fashionable north side district. Police surrounded in anticipation of a long gun battle. But to the amazement of the officers, the bandits, smiling, and with hands raised, walked calmly from the house and surrendered.

Moran and McElrath were sentenced to indeterminate terms for highway robbery.

LABOR TO PROTEST RUSSIAN INTERVENTION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Southport, Eng., June 27.—British, French, and Italian labor representatives have decided to make a general demonstration July 20 or 21 to protest against allied intervention in Russia. This announcement was made by Arthur Henderson, British labor leader, at the labor conference here today.

Mr. Henderson said the demonstration would be an attempt to prevent the governments of Europe from adopting a reactionary policy. It would be left to each country, he added, to decide whether the demonstration would take the form of political or industrial action. Resolutions would be adopted protesting against any intervention in Russia and demanding the abandonment of conscription.

The conference later adopted a resolution calling upon the trade union congress to take industrial action in support of the British government's order to compel the British government to stop operations in Russia. There was a heated discussion over the resolution which was adopted on a card vote by 1,893,000 to 935,000.
